

Computers for Learning (CFL) Training Day

Thursday, April 22, 2010

Learn more about the transfer of excess computer equipment to public schools and nonprofit educational organizations.

Topics will include:

- The Computers for Learning (CFL) program Learn how the Computers for Learning (CFL) program provides a quick and easy way for government agencies and the private sector to donate excess computer equipment to schools and educational nonprofits.
- Executive Order 12999 Learn how the CFL program evolved as a guide for implementing Executive Order 12999, Educational Technology: Ensuring Opportunity for all Children in the Next Century. The executive order encourages agencies, to the extent permitted by law, to transfer computers and related peripheral equipment excess to their needs directly to schools and some educational nonprofit organizations.
- CFL Website Computers for Learning (CFL) is proud to present our newly redesigned website. Learn how your school can register to receive computers. If you are from a school looking to receive computer or technology equipment through CFL, then this is the place for you. There is information for public, private, and home schools, as well as a school search so you can see who else is participating in CFL! www.computersforlearning.gov
- State Agency for Surplus Property (SASP) Learn how your school can receive other types of personal property. State Agencies for Surplus Property (SASP) have been established by each state, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, the Commonwealth of the Virgin Islands, the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands, Guam, and American Samoa to distribute personal property that the Federal government no longer needs. The SASPs advise applicants of eligibility requirements and procedures to follow in acquiring surplus federal personal property and of the conditions and restrictions placed on the property.
- Tour of the GSA Personal Property Center (PPC) The PPC, located just outside Washington, DC, in Springfield, Virginia, primarily serves the greater Washington area, including eastern Maryland and Virginia, but is open to the entire East Coast. In effect, the PPC acts as a repository for deliveries of unneeded property from federal agencies looking for smart disposal solutions. Come take the tour, screen property available for transfer and network with federal agencies!
